Reading Comprehension

-Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions below:

We all know that money is necessary because we need it to pay for our food, clothes, houses and for many other purposes. Of course, that does not mean that money is the only important thing in life or the only source of happiness. What will the use of money be if it is spent unwisely or carelessly? Naturally, money that is ill-spent brings no real happiness or pleasure to us; on the contrary, it may be very harmful.

Health is a treasure or real wealth and people cannot enjoy their life if they are not healthy or they do not have any pains, no matter how wealthy they may be. Houses are full of persons who feel proud when they possess sound bodies because they enable us to work hard or to bear the hardship of life. If we are strong, we can live to an old age and enjoy our life fully. On the other hand, if we are unhealthy or weak, we shall never be able to pursue our pleasure and life will be full of pains, suffering and sadness.

Last of all, and the most important, is wisdom. If we are foolish, we shall never be happy. Wise people are very careful with their money and health, whereas foolish people sooner waste their money or ruin their health. It is our mind that raises us above the rank of animals. So, we should use it to secure happiness.
